

Welcome

Communicating Mathematics for the Public

- Aim: Explore the challenges and share experience in communicating important mathematics to the public through a variety of streams, including the media and government.
- Supported by:

- Organisers:

Thomas King (Royal Statistical Society Data Ethics and Governance Section)

Kevin McConway (The Open University)

No Fire Alarm Test Planned

Overview

- 2 days, 19 talks, 1 interactive session & 2 panel sessions across 4 themes:
 - 1) Good Practice, Chaired by Rachael Harris (Isaac Newton Institute, KE Hub)
 - 2) Public Experience, Chaired by David Spiegelhalter (University of Cambridge)
 - 3) Pandemic and Other Emergencies, Chaired by Timandra Harkness
 - 4) Experience and Next Steps, Chaired by Kevin McConway (The Open University)

Overview

- Questions and Discussion at the end of each session.
- This event is being recorded & livestreamed – with some exceptions.
- Photos by Dan & Grace
- Breaks & lunches served in the Discussion Room/registration area. Downstairs sofas and upstairs mezzanine area available to use.

Day 1:

- Networking reception from 5:00-6:30pm.
- Interactive session running in parallel from 5:30-6:30pm.
- Dinner at Churchill College at 7:30pm, for those who registered (indicated on name badges).

Day 2:

- Talks, 2x Panel Sessions and Next Steps session, close at 4:30pm.